EVALUATION REPORT

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

2022-23

An abstract regarding evaluation under the department of Physics 2022-23

This report highlights the internal evaluation methods employed within the Department of Physics during the academic year 2022-23. The teaching and assessment process begins in July, following a structured academic calendar. Teachers prepare academic plans and evaluation strategies aligned with the curriculum.

Throughout the year, students undergo regular evaluations including tests, seminars, group discussions, and quiz competitions. These activities aim to enhance students' comprehension, communication skills, and group dynamics. Internal assessments contribute to the semester grading system, ensuring a comprehensive evaluation of students' progress.

Additionally, interventions are provided to support struggling students, including study materials, parental consultations, and personal visits. Interactive sessions, field projects, poster making, and home assessments further enrich the teaching and learning experience.

Overall, these diverse evaluation methods facilitate holistic development and prepare students for future academic and professional endeavors.

Instructions for Students to File Grievance Regarding Internal Assessment

Internal evaluation and university examinations are used to measure students' learning performance. Internal assessments consist of Unit Test, Assignments, project work, seminar presentations, group discussions, Quiz competition, study tours, and practical practice.

If a student is dissatisfied with the marks issued for the manner as mentioned earlier internal evaluation or has any other concerns about the internal marks, he or she should follow the following regulations.

1. If students detect any mistakes, such as errors in mark distribution or correction, they should inform the concerned teacher with a written application.
2. If a student is dissatisfied with the marks obtained even after the teacher has handled the issue, he or she may file a complaint with the HOD.
3. If a student is dissatisfied with the decision of the head of department, he or she may approach the Principal.
4. The principal will review all documents on internal assessments given by students in the relevant department and decide on the grievance.
5. If a student has a complaint about a university examination, students should contact the Mentor Teacher and the appropriate clerk in the administrative office with an application.
6. If the complaint is about the undervaluation of the answer sheet, students should contact their subject teachers and apply to the University for Photocopy or revaluation of the answer sheet within 15 days of the results being revealed.
7. The college prepares and submits the necessary documents to the appropriate university authorities for the resolution of the remaining complaints. Students' complaints about the external examination are handled within the specified time frame.
